Becoming a child is living the Beatitudes and so finding the narrow gate into the Kingdom

Henri J Nouwen

Today's gospel is acclaimed as the 'sermon on the plain' in contrast to the 'sermon on the Mount', the Matthean version of the Beatitudes. Luke's version of the Beatitudes is shorter and more personal than Matthew's account of the Kingdom character. Whereas Matthew has eight beatitudes, Luke has just four categories of people declared blessed: the poor, those who are hungry, those who weep, and those who are hated because of Christ. In Luke's version, Jesus addresses his audience – his disciples, along with a large group of people – in the second person, 'Blessed are you...', whereas in Matthew's version, he addresses them in the third person, 'Blessed are those...' Unlike Matthew, Luke also balances his four beatitudes with four 'Woes' or warnings for the 'well heeled' and those the world puts on a pedestal.

Jesus identifies himself with the 'have-nots' and proclaims them 'happy' or 'blessed': because their condition will witness a change with the advent of God's reign not only after this earthly journey but here and now. Jesus is strongly saying that if you are poor, hungry and weeping the kingdom of God is yours. Is this really possible? What does it mean? God is inviting us to express love to the marginalised in our communities. We may need to think about who the marginalised are. Anyone who feels excluded from society because he/she does not fit into the standards set by the society is marginalised. These people lack the power, resources or skills to advocate for themselves and as a result they are totally voiceless, pushed to the fringes of society.

In thinking about how much God loves the marginalised and those who are grieving and suffering, I am reminded of the story of a young woman who was diagnosed with MS. Her relationship with her partner had broken down, and she needed to go into the hospital for ongoing treatment. Her grief at her body not functioning as before, which made her unable to look after herself and her children, was profound. This woman's identity was so strongly connected to the idea of being a mother that she felt her role in life had been taken away from her. Anyone who is marginalised in any way has to work extra hard to be able to find a fulfilling life financially, emotionally, psychologically and spiritually. As this woman learned to accept the progressive changes in her condition and the dynamics of her family, she found the courage to connect with others, including people with disabilities. By humbly asking for assistance, she was able to rebuild a life of independence. (Reflection by Peter Gormley)

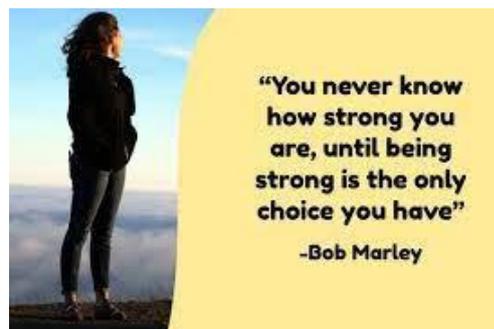

In what ways do I use the power in the people I meet? Do I find ways to share my power with marginalised people?

The Beatitudes have often been described as a framework for Christian living and indeed they are. They offer guidelines for living out our vocation as Christians. Each of us is called to be a person of the Beatitudes. We are called not to be first in this world, but rather to be first in the eyes of God. This means to live simply, to be humble, gentle, merciful and just in our relationships and to place our ultimate trust in God. Today's readings challenge us to examine our lives in the context of the horizon of God's Kingdom and its Charter, the Beatitudes. (Source: Vinnies' reflection and Society of South African Missions)

St Claude de la Colombiere Feast Day 15 February

This is a special day for the Jesuits, who claim today's saint as one of their own. It's also a special day for people who have a special devotion to the Sacred Heart of Jesus—a devotion Claude de la Colombiere promoted along with his friend and spiritual companion, Saint Margaret Mary Alacoque. The emphasis on God's love for all was an antidote to the rigorous moralism of the Jansenists, who were popular at the time. Claude showed remarkable preaching skills long before his ordination in 1675. Two months later, he was made superior of a small Jesuit residence in Burgundy. It was there he first encountered Margaret Mary Alacoque. For many years after he served as her confessor. He was next sent to England to serve as confessor to the Duchess of York. He preached by both words and by the example of his holy life, converting a number of Protestants. Tensions arose against Catholics and Claude, rumored to be part of a plot against the king, was imprisoned. He was ultimately banished, but by then his health had been ruined. He died in 1682. Pope John Paul II canonized Claude de la Colombiere in 1992.

Pope Francis has asked all Catholics to participate in the Synod of Bishops by responding to his call for a 'Listening Church'. The first step for Australian Catholics is participation in a discernment process, whereby they consider their thoughts individually or in groups of family and friends. There are resources to help them do this at the website we have created for parishioners in the Diocese of Parramatta which can be found at the link bit.ly/synod2023

World Meeting of Families: 22-26 June 2022

Every three years since 1994, the Church has celebrated the World Meeting of Families in a different city of the world. In 2022 the event will be hosted by the Diocese of Rome with Pope Francis leading special celebrations. However, the Holy Father has also asked that the World Meeting of Families be celebrated concurrently in every diocese of the world in 2022. The idea is for families to gather locally in Parishes and/or Deaneries and explore and celebrate the theme of "Family love: a vocation and a path to holiness". Stay tuned for exciting opportunities to participate with the Diocese of Parramatta in 2022.
